Education

- 1998      Ph.D (Sociology) ~ University of Wisconsin – Madison
1993      M.S. (Sociology) ~ University of Wisconsin – Madison
1991      B.A. (Sociology & Anthropology) ~ Carleton College, Northfield, MN

Professional Positions

- 2002–      Assistant to Associate (fall 2005) to Full (fall 2009) Professor, Department of Sociology, University of Minnesota
            Affiliate, Minnesota Population Center
            Affiliate, Life Course Center
            Affiliate, Center for Demography of Health and Aging (University of Wisconsin – Madison)
- 1998–2002      Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology, University of Washington
            Affiliate, Center for Studies in Demography and Ecology
            Affiliate, Center for Statistics and the Social Sciences

Ongoing Research Initiatives

Panel Conditioning Effects in Longitudinal Studies (with Andrew Halpern-Manners)

How does participating in a long-term longitudinal study alter individuals' attitudes and behaviors—or at least their propensity to accurately report those attitudes and behaviors? To address this issue we are using data from the Current Population Survey and the German Socioeconomic Panel. This project has been supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation; other proposals are in development.

Work and Family across the Life Course (with Jim Raymo)

Using data from the Wisconsin Longitudinal Study, we are modeling the impact of work and family roles and conditions across the life course on health, well-being, financial security, and other outcomes in late adulthood.

High School Exit Examinations and Educational and Labor Market Success (with Eric Grodsky)

This project is designed to assess the effects of state-mandated high school exit examinations on high school completion, educational achievement, and post-high school labor market outcomes. This project has been supported by grants from the Spencer Foundation, the U.S. Department of Education, and the National Science Foundation.
